

ЕВРОПЕЙСКИЙ
УНИВЕРСИТЕТ
В САНКТ-ПЕТЕРБУРГЕ

Research Center

[RES-PUBLICA]

Republicanism in Theory and Practice

[ 500 years after 1509-2009

the Agnadello battle ]

May 14 (Thursday), St Petersburg

European University at St Petersburg
Golden Hall, 16.00—20.00

Philip Pettit (Princeton)

Republicanism, Law and Democracy:
The Tradition Today

The address will reflect on the seminal book, Pettit, “Republicanism: A Theory of Freedom and Government” (1997)

Edward Muir (Northwestern University)

500 Years after Agnadello (May 14, 1509):
The Significance of Venice in the History of Republicanism

Dmitrii Kozlov (Irkutsk University)

Harrington and the Tradition of Classical Republicanism:
the Problem of Translation and Development in the Republican Discourse.

Oleg Kharkhordin (EUSP)

Stoic grammar and Cicero's Theory of Res Publica: Why Res Publica is not a State?

May 15 (Friday), Novgorod

Znamensky monastery, 14.00—19.00

Sergei Troianovsky (Institute of History, RAS)

“Northern Venice” in 1136-1478:
Comparing History and Political Economy of the Rialto Bridge in Venice and of the Great Bridge in Medieval Novgorod (Underwater excavations and archival research, 2005-9)

Mikhail Krom (EUSP)

Was Muscovite Annexation of Pskov in January 1510
the Collapse of the “Last Russian Republic”?: Some Comments on the Pskov Judiciary Charter.

Paul D. McLean (Rutgers University)

Citizen or Denizen: The Counterpoint Between Republican Participation and Private Interest in Renaissance Florence

Mikhail Sokolov (EUSP)

Then and Now: Self-Governing Communities in Medieval and Early Modern Europe and Republican Principles in Contemporary Academic Authority Systems

Working Language of the Conference is English.