

The European University is one of the top schools of higher education in social and human sciences in Russia. This university educates new generations of academic and industry professionals by combining teaching and research activities.

Today, EUSP attracts leading academics from all over the world – they go there to teach, inspire students, get valuable feedback to their work, and learn something new for themselves. In turn EUSP’s academics visit department and research centers all around the world. The EUSP Department of Economics is an important center for research in mathematical economics, economic growth, income distribution, and environmental economics. Its MA programs have earned a solid reputation for their international quality. Their graduates have continued careers in PhD programs in Europe, USA, and Australia, contributing to the Russia “soft power”.

We believe that any problems with EUSP of a regulatory compliance nature can and should be resolved by the parties involved, including the Russian authorities, in a professional and routine manner. That is, without stopping the educational and research activities. This University a good example of what Russia is able to and should achieve in the economic and social transition from soviet era. We hope that our colleagues in the EUSP will continue to teach and do research for the benefit of Russia and beyond.
